10 MILLIONS FOR GERMAN RELIEF

CONGRESS APPROPRIATES SUM TO HELP AVERT SUFFERING AND STARVATION.

FAVORABLE VOTE IS 240 TO 97

Measure Provides That Food Stuffs Be Purchased in This Country and Sent On U. S. Ships.

Washington—Ten million dollars to buy food for starving women and children in Germany has been authorized by the house after a long, stormy session which resulted in virtual array of the south against the north and west. By a vote of 240 to 97 the house approved a resolution of Representative Elah of New York to send American food to Germany.

Party lines were blurred in the voting, southerners opposing the measure, and northern and western Democrats favoring it. Michigan representatives voted solidly to expend the money for the relief.

Opposition to the measure was based primarily upon the unconstitutionality of the appropriation and the propriety of expending public money this way. The proponents of the resolution declared that sections of the constitution directing legislation for the good of the country included gaining the good will of foreign nations as being for the good of the United States.

It is believed that the donation not only will result in good to the Germans but will aid the American farmer since the resolution expressly stated that the money was to be used to buy food and supplies for shipment to Germany's destitute, and the cash would stay in this country. Under the provision of the act the supplies are to be shipped to German ports in American vessels.

Representative Wood of Indiana declared that if this act of charity violated the constitution, so also did the war loans to France and other countries because, he said, the French loan was really charity, since it would never be repaid.

WIFE SHOTS MAN IN THEATER

Audience in Panic As Shots Are Fired—Woman Drinks Poison

Detroit—Sigmond Rosen, 24 years old, organizer at the Del-The motion picture theater, 3335 Mack avenue, was shot in the back three times by his wife, Harriet Rosen of Sandwich, Ont., as he sat playing for the final scenes in a movie drama at the close of the afternoon performance.

Rosen was fatally wounded. His wife who threw away the revolver and drank poison immediately after the shooting, will recover, in a statement to the police at the hospital she said "I did it because I loved him."

Patrons of the theater, including 500 children attending a special juvenile performance, were thrown into a panic as Mrs. Rosen, who had been sitting in the front row, just behind her husband, fired.

The theater was in darkness when the shots were fired. Women and children began to scream and the lights were turned on. Rosen was found lying in the orchestra and his wife lay nearby. A revolver was found on the floor beside her.

POPE ELEVATES 2 U. S. BISHOPS

Hayes and Mundelein Made Cardinals of Roman Catholic Church.

Rome—Monsignor Patrick J. Hayes, archbishop of New York, and Monsignor George W. Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, have been made cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church at a secret consistory in the historic Hall of Consistory at the Vatican. The ceremony, carried out in conformity with the centuries-old ritual, was performed in majestic solemnity amid a setting of colorful splendor.

The Pope in his allocution declared America to have attained "primacy" in charity and that he wished to remember this in an unusual way. Therefore he elevated to the sacred purple two prelates whose qualities and the importance of whose sees warranted it.

The two American prelates, raised to the dignity of princes of the church, were not present, but awaited notification of their elevation at their respective temporary places of residence in Rome, in accordance with custom.

GRAYLING HEARS FAMOUS COACH

LITTLE U. OF M. TALKS ON TRUE SPORTSMANSHIP.

Banquet Tendered Local Basketball And Debating Teams.

Besides demonstrating the appreciation and esteem of the public in which the local basketball and debating teams of the city are held, an opportunity was afforded to listen to an address by Coach George Little, of the University of Michigan team.

It was a delightful occasion and was carried out most successfully. The affair was held at our hospitable hostelry Shoppington Inn Monday evening. Nearly 100 ladies and gentlemen were present. After a delightful dinner President M. A. Bates acting as hostmaster for the evening presented the speakers.

Dr. C. R. Keyport on behalf of the members of the Board of Trade extended to the invited guests, the boys and girls High School basketball teams and the Grayling Independent team and the High School debating team, a hearty welcome, and addressing the teams, said "You true American sportsman have won for you our highest admiration. We are proud of you."

In response Capt. Roy Milnes of the Independents, extended on behalf of that team, their thanks to the Board of Trade for the fine banquet, the school board for permitting them to use the school gymnasium and to Supt. B. E. and Mr. Crane for their able coaching. He also assured the audience that it was because of their generous patronage that they were able to continue their games.

Marcella Sullivan, captain of the girls team extended their appreciation for the kindness of the people, and stated that under the able coaching of Miss Curtis and Supt. Smith they were able to develop a fast team.

Donald Reynolds of the debating team also assured the audience of their appreciation for honors extended.

Supt. B. E. Smith, representing the schools, expressed their appreciation to the people for their support and said that the play ground was where physical, mental and moral development is built in the pupils.

Coach George Little of the University of Michigan, and the able successor to the great Yost, gave the principal address of the evening. He said at the beginning that he already felt quite at home in Grayling, although this was his first visit to our city.

"You have here the factors for building up physical development and mental, moral and social character during the world war and illustrated many of his remarks with instances that occurred during some of his overseas service, and told many stories that showed a play strongly during some of the trying times at the front. The spirit to fight to the last drop of energy."

His account of the training of a great football team and of the last scenes preceding any of the great conference games was very interesting and inspiring. He made mention of many of the great gridiron stars and told of their loyalty, generosity, and courtesies to their fellow players, and how the players will devote themselves for their alma mater and their university.

In the athletic departments of the great universities are developed the highest type of characters, elevating the standard of citizenship everywhere. Players are instilled with the thought that they "May not be winners at this game but don't forget your mission." Such athletics, he said, are considered at the universities as character-building work. "A kid has to be pretty rotten when you can't bring him around by the medium of sport."

Coach Little was frequently generously applauded for his address. His personal mention of Coach Yost won a very liberal applause.

Those who listened in extending words of praise for his remarks. The audience was made up of members of the Board of Trade and their wives and the guests of the evening. After the speaking many repaired to the Board of Trade rooms and enjoyed dancing until about midnight.

MUSKRATS DESTROY ELECTRIC DAM

ABOUT 30 FEET WASHED AWAY SUNDAY NIGHT.

Town In Darkness While Repairs Are Being Made.

Grayling is in darkness because of the activities of the lowly muskrat. About thirty feet of embankment of the small dam at the Electric Light Co. power plant, was washed away during Sunday night, flooding the region below and wasting the precious water that has been so scarce all winter.

Muskrats had burrowed holes into the earth embankment permitting the water to seep thru until it finally ended in breaking away entirely. A large crew of men are busy repairing the damage and it is expected that within a couple of weeks the dam will be completed and be better and stronger than ever. Each year muskrats have caused considerable damage at this place and it has always been a constant source of annoyance to keep the dam in repair. Last fall Manager M. Hanson offered a bonus of $1 each for the rats that were caught at this place and 15 were caught there in a short time.

Until the repairs can be completed and the machinery started again the people of the town will have to get along the best they can. Homes are without electricity and the lights from the electric street lamps are no longer hum and in general there seems to be a state of depression. To try to read by the dull and flickering oil lamps makes one realize that there was a reason why the grandparents went to bed at 7 o'clock and were up at 6:00 a. m. but they were better off physically than it would be hard to read as muskrats "to live that way" now when the nights are turned into day by the mystic juice the world has no time to sleep, and some people only retire when nature forces them to do so. People have become accustomed to live electrically and it is hard to get along without it even for a short time.

And muskrats may be all right for fur and in the frying pan but they are a pretty poor proposition around an earthen dam.

YOUNG SCHOOL GIRL DIES.

Blanche Johnson Succumbs After Several Weeks Illness.

Blanche A. the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Johnson, passed away at her home Tuesday morning, after being ill since the first of February. The little girl first took ill with a cold fever, from which meningitis developed which was the direct cause of her death. For the past five weeks the child has been in a most feeble condition, scarcely able to lift a hand, and she has had the best of care of local physicians and a trained nurse, but the illness was more than her frail body could withstand, and so death came to relieve her suffering Tuesday morning.

Blanche was a pupil of the fourth grade and her little school mates as well as her young friends, by whom she was well liked are sorry to learn of her death. Blanche was born in Maple Forest Township March 18, 1914, and a few years ago with her parents came to Grayling to reside.

Besides her parents, the little girl is survived by three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald of Grand Rapids, Kenneth, Fay, Gladys, Grace, William and Arnold, Jr. all of Grayling. The funeral is being held this afternoon with services at the home at 2:00 conducted by Marlin Maxwell. The parents and sisters and brothers have the sincere sympathy of many in their sorrow.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Revival meetings closed in the Free Methodist Church Sunday night which were being held by Evangelist L. D. Kirby of Owosso, Mich. The meetings lasted two weeks, and every message was well received. Rev. Kirby felt that his work wasn't finished here in Grayling so he has secured the G. A. R. Hall, and is still in revival meetings at that place. Everybody is welcome. The mission work will be for all who know God, so please do come and help us in the good work for the Salvation of Souls.

And we want to express our gratefulness to the officers of the city of Grayling for their good work rendered in giving us splendid order during the services, and especially to Mr. Yoder for his faithfulness from night to night in protecting us, and executing the law where needed, and for his promise of the same in the future.

Yours respectfully, Evangelist L. D. Kirby.

COMPLIMENTS GRAYLING BOOSTERS.

A letter from the Presque Isle County Advance, Rogers City, written by Editor Harold Whiteley, says as follows:

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

Health Officer Explains Terms—Quarantine and Isolation.

Some people do not seem to understand what the words "Quarantine and Isolation" mean, so I take this way of explaining these terms. Also the penalty connected with same when any person violating the rule.

Quarantine. By quarantine is meant that the house be absolutely closed and no one permitted to enter it or leave it except medical attendants; that the house shall be placarded by a card not smaller than 7 by 11 inches, which shall bear in large letters the word "quarantine" and the name of the diseased; and that the placards shall be conspicuously placed on both front and rear of the house.

Isolation. Isolation means that the patient and attendant shall be isolated in a part of the house away from the other members of the family; that no one except the attendant shall be permitted to enter or leave this part of the house, but that the other members of the household shall be permitted to go about their regular business. The house shall be placarded by a card not smaller than seven inches by eleven inches, which shall bear in large letters the name of the disease; and that these placards shall be conspicuously placed on both front and rear of the house.

Penalties—The 1919 law imposes a fine of two hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, of any person violating any rule or order of the State Health Commissioner. This includes physicians or householders who fail to make report to the health officer; a health officer who fails to report to the Michigan Department of Health (Sec. 12, Act 146, P. A. 1919).

The scarlet fever epidemic is subsiding, no new cases being reported. There are a number still under quarantine, and also a number are being treated. Those families who are still in quarantine, and the number in each household are as follows:

Dan Kolka—2. Orson Corwin—1. Arnold Johnson—1. Clarabel Hörning—1. Aleck Smith—1. Clifford Chappell—2. Sealey Wakeley—6. Carl Sorenson—5.

Two of those ill in the Carl Sorenson home are Miss Shaw and Miss Hendrick, teachers of Grayling schools.

The following families have been released from quarantine: Frank May, J. W. Randolph, Mrs. Marie Hanson, Harold Rasmussen, T. P. Peterson, James Sherman and the quarantine will be lifted before April.

MRS. KILE NOT A CANDIDATE.

I have been nominated for the office of township clerk of Beaver Creek township on the Citizens ticket. This was without my consent. As it is too late to withdraw my name the ballots having already been printed, I wish to request my friends to in no way consider that I am a candidate.

Mrs. Belle Kile.

Too many young people imagine they are live wires because they are shocking.

WHIPPING BOSS APRIL 2ND

AMERICAN LEGION TO GIVE MOVING PICTURE.

"The Whipping Boss," a Beverly production will be given under the auspices of Grayling Post No. 105 American Legion on Wednesday evening, April 2nd.

This story, which deals with a pretty Southern romance, also shows life in a cypress logging camp in Louisiana, where convict labor is used, and Director McGowan took his entire company to a logging camp, twenty-six miles from New Orleans, for the location scenes.

It was here that he employed the remnants of this gang, feared throughout the entire State of Louisiana, to portray the parts of convicts at the logging camp.

"The Whipping Boss" features an all-star cast headed by such favorites as Lloyd Hughes, Barbara Bedford and Eddie Phillips. The story calls for a thrilling rescue by Captain Dick Forest, the hero portrayed by Hughes, of Jim Fairfax from a flaming stockade which had been fired by the lumber camp boss to burn him to death and thus remove all evidence of the criminally brutal beating given him.

Don't miss seeing this excellent picture.

List on the following homes: Robert Giffin, George Kirkendall, James Sherman, James Bugbee, Geo. Clise and Kathryn Mallingier; Miss Juanita Secord and Mrs. Archambeau will be released before the end of the month.

There are cases of chicken pox, one at the home of Sam Johnson and the other at the home of T. P. Peterson; and a case of measles at the home of Walter Borch.

So far as can be learned, chop suey was unknown in China until quite recently. It is purely the creation of English-speaking Chinese restaurant keepers in the United States. The origin of the word "chop suey" is uncertain. Most authorities believe it is composed of English "chop" and Chinese "sui," meaning bits, fragments or fine pieces, for chop suey is only a hasty mixture of fine bits of various

There seems to be no connection between "chop" in "Chop suey" and in "chopsticks." In the latter word "chop" means "quick" and probably refers to the celerity with which natives of China habitually handle the chopsticks. One lexicographer thinks "chop" may come from the Cantonese word "hap" which means to enter the mouth. —Detroit News.

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 1934

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Meeting of the Village Council, in session as the Board of Health for the said Village of Grayling.

Present: C. A. Canfield, C. O. McCullough, Dan Hoesli, M. A. Atkinson, Frank Sales.

Absent: Eva Reagan, J. H. Wingard.

Meeting called to order by the President.

Resolved that whereas it has become apparent to this board through various sources that there is need for concerted action to attempt to stamp out the present contagion that now exists and it becomes the responsibility of this board to enact such measures as will most effectively operate in this instance.

Therefore Be it RESOLVED that the president of this board do issue a declaration relative thereto in which shall be embraced the condition under which the declaration is made, also therein advising the community generally that as a prevention measure they are urged and requested to report any and all illness to their physician and that they are also permitted to keep their children from school attendance if in their judgment they believe that their children should not attend. Directing further that all such absences of whatever nature will be investigated by the Board of Health, and in any case where any child shall be kept from school attendance for any reason, such child shall be kept within the confines of its own proper premises and not allowed on the streets or in public places.

Directing further that in event the latter provision is not observed, individually and generally, a more strict quarantine measure will be placed in effect, under the authority in this board vested by law.

Moved by Sales supported by McCullough that the resolution be accepted, approved and adopted. Motion carried.

Resolved that in consideration of the existing conditions relative to matters pertaining to the present epidemic of Scarlet Fever and from which it becomes necessary for suitable provision to be made to procure adequate information from which a satisfactory system may be placed in operation in an effort to control the spread of further contagion of this disease.

Therefore Be it Further resolved that the Health Officer of this Village, together with the County Red Cross Nurse be and are herewith duly delegate to procure the necessary information from the Superintendent of Schools of this district, a daily list of all absences occurring at school in this district, from which they shall conduct a complete investigation of each case of absence so reported to them and report thereon their findings as to reasons for such absence, the nature of any sickness, if any, and to report said conditions to the Superintendent of Schools in order that a complete record of such illness may be established.

It shall also be the duty of each of said delegated persons to advise the members of each household called upon, wherein they find children not sick but kept from school attendance because of the present conditions that such children shall be kept within the confines of their own proper premises and not allowed to be in the streets or in the public places within the Village.

Be it Further resolved that the Health Officer and County Red Cross Nurse be instructed and authorized to employ their full working time to carry out the provisions herein authorized, and that the Health Officer shall be compensated in addition to regular salary in such amount as this board may determine and direct, to be paid and further that the period for which these provisions shall apply shall be determined by the proper action of this board.

Moved by McCullough, supported by Hoesli, that the resolution be approved and adopted.

Moved and supported that the board adjourn. Motion carried.

Frank Sales, Acting Clerk.

Approved.

FRANK MUTH PASSED AWAY.

Frank Muth, husband of Olive Muth passed away at his home in T-town at 2:30 a. m. Monday morning after a two weeks illness. Although Mr. Muth had not been feeling well for some time, it was only two weeks ago that it was necessary for him to give up his work at the Box factory where he was employed. The cause of his death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Muth was born August 21, 1873 being 50 years, 7 months and 3 days old at the time of his death. The family came to Grayling in 1918 from Summit City, and have resided at T-town since that time.

Besides his wife the deceased is survived by seven children, all of whom will miss a kind and loving husband and father. The children are Mrs. Claude Parker, Mrs. Walter Doroh, Mrs. Walter Cox, Edna, Frank, Charles and Stella, all of Grayling.

Fred and Peter Muth came to Grayling at the time of their brother's death, leaving again for their home in Summit City. The remains were taken to Summit City Wednesday where the funeral services will be held, and following the services will be taken to Kingsley the old home of the family for interment. The family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

SAFE HIGHWAYS TO BE GOAL OF POLICE LEADER

FLYING SQUADRON OF MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS TO CLEAN UP RECKLESS DRIVERS.

SOME CHANGE IN EQUIPMENT

Commissioner Harry H. Jackson of the Department of Public Safety, in announcing his plans for the further improvement of the department, has decided to make the uniformed branch of the Michigan State Police a separate division and to give special attention to highway matters. He finds that the improved roads of the state have become unsafe in many sections because of the increase in reckless and illegal driving.

"The uniformed force of the department will be under one head," states Commissioner Jackson, "and will function as a separate part of the department. A very important part of its work will have to do with highway travel. There is need of strict repressive measures to make Michigan highways safe for the general public, and it is probable that before another year there will be a flying squadron in being which will be under the command of one officer, and will be moved from one part of the state to another to handle this highway work effectively. Naturally the places where accidents are most frequent and speeding most dangerous will be cleaned up first. This squadron will co-operate with sheriffs and other local officers and welcome their advice.

Not Seeking Arrests

"In dealing with violators of the highway laws, the point cannot be stressed too strongly that the policy will not be to make a great number of arrests for technical violations, but rather to warn and advise drivers and to resort to arrests only to the extent that such action is necessary to check recklessness, carelessness and disregard of the law and of the rights and safety of others.

"It is my opinion that the detachment posts now established for the uniformed men of the Michigan State Police should be retained and, perhaps, other posts added if the circumstances warrant. These posts serve a useful function in that they furnish a point from which men may be summoned in any emergency. Peace officers in the districts in which they are located know where these posts are and know that they can communicate with them when they require assistance.

Aid in Emergencies

"In such unusual cases as some times develop, where a community whose police officers are insufficient in number to handle any ordinary situation, finds a condition suddenly created, necessitating the aid of a state force in order to maintain order and protect life and property, the Michigan State Police will, I am sure, always be equipped and ready for the duty."

Conditions under which the Michigan State Police work have minimized the number of cases in which horses are required. However, it is not the present policy of the department to do away with horses entirely. There are occasions in which mounted men are able to do far better work than men on foot or on motorcycles.

"Some changes in the uniform and equipment of the State Police are under consideration. It is probable that for ordinary duty the men will not carry the large revolvers on army belts, which are now regulation. This does not mean that the officers will be unarmed or that they will not use the heavier weapon when on duty requiring such equipment, such as night duty and other emergencies when dealing with persons who may be expected to shoot in resisting arrest."

NEW YORK COMMANDER LEAVES STATE POLICE

Lieutenant-Colonel George F. Chandler, who organized the New York State Police in 1917, has resigned his post in order to resume his practice as a surgeon. He had served under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

While known as one of the most successful surgeons in the East, Dr. Chandler had made a great success as a police commander. He used the same scientific methods in dealing with crime that he would have used in diagnosing disease. It was his theory that crime is largely due to mental disease of one form or another.

The New York State Police was increased this year from four to six troops. It was organized at about the same time as the Michigan State Police.

TROOPER WINS PRAISE

Trooper Levi Bullion of the West Virginia State Police was commended recently by his superior officer, Colonel Jackson Arnold, for his heroism in carrying an injured hunter, James Lockhart, for a distance of ten miles to the lookout station of Rimfire Hamrick on Turkey Mountain, thus saving the man's life.

Have Your Gold Scale Tested. Standard fineness of all gold and silver coins is 900, but a variation of three one-thousandths is allowed for silver coins, while a deviation of but one one-thousandth for the gold coin is not permitted.

Needle of Death

Cleopatra's Needle, on the bank of the Thames, is a monument 68 feet high, and weighing 150 tons, originally brought from Heliopolis and presented to the English government by Mohammed Ali.

NOW YOU KNOW

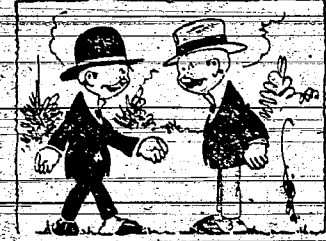

"Darling, what do you think of my new gown?"
"I think just what the neighbors will think when they see it."

"How are you making out at college, Freddie?"
"Fine! I've got a crush on the daughter of my boarding house landlady already."

TOUGH

"I hear your chauffeur eloped with your wife."
"Yes, now the fool has to buy his own gas when they go joy riding."

The locals won from Elk Rapids by a score of 20 to 15 and from Kalkaska 26 to 20 but went down to defeat at the hands of Harbor Springs and Charlevoix. Those on the team who made the trip were Edgar McPhee, captain; Stanley Matson, Elmer Smith, Clarence Ingalls, Wesley Lagrow, Russell Robertson, Lipman Lundberg and Charles Isenhauer, and they were accompanied by Coach Clifford Crane and Supt. B. E. Smith. Harbor Springs won the honors at the tournament of teams in class "C" and Cheboygan in teams of class "B".

BREAD CRUMB GRIDDLE CAKES

Every thrifty housekeeper has a supply of bread crumbs made by drying out stale bread and then rolling it out. These crumbs are excellent to use in griddle cakes.

1 1/2 cups fine dry crumbs.
1 1/4 cups scalded milk.
2 eggs.
2 tbsp. melted fat.
1/2 cup flour.
1/2 tsp. salt.
4 level tsp. baking powder.

Pour the hot milk over the crumbs and let them stand until they are soft. Sift the flour once before measuring. Mix and sift the flour, salt and baking powder. Add the slightly beaten egg to the milk and crumbs. Mix the liquid with the dry ingredients. Add the melted fat. Bake on a hot griddle that has been slightly greased.

Jam or marmalade is very good with griddle cakes for variety.

Strain on Human Body

In hot weather the human body makes an extraordinary effort to adapt itself to conditions and meet the strain placed upon it. Violent overheating or great physical effort for a few hours causes the body to throw off some four liters of fluid. In other words, the perspiration secreted in a brief while is greater than the entire blood supply of the body.

JOYS OF MOTHERHOOD

Often Prevented by Female Trouble

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was working as a nurse and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knew who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WENGER, 1624 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

and I was afraid that I could never have any more. For I had been told that I never could have a living child for I was not strong enough to carry one. But they were mistaken and I had a nice baby boy and now I have five children. I can't praise your medicine enough. My youngest sister has taken it too and praises it.—Mrs. G. L. WILSON, 43 Mechanics Row, Auburn, Maine.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements and to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

88 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 88 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women.

Free From Old Trouble

Auburn, Maine.—"I suffered with forward weakness for ten years and had doctored all this long time but never got any help. One day I saw my sister and she told me of Lydia E. Shortest Electric Wave

Is Only Ten Meters Long

Complete electric waves only ten meters long, believed to be the shortest ever produced, have been developed by an electric oscillator invented by J. P. Burton, a sophomore student at the University of Minnesota. The electrical engineering department is beginning experiments to determine whether this current can be used in radio communication.

The waves compare with ordinary lengths of from 100 to 2,000 meters used in radio communication, while wave lengths in power transmission are frequently several thousand miles long.

One advantage of the short waves is that they can be used more effectively in classroom demonstration than long ones can.

The Burton oscillator generates pronounced standing current so that at one point and wire several amperes are measured, while a few feet away no current is perceptible. Another of its traits is that short circuits on the wire do not seem to affect it.

Waves from the new oscillator have the unusually high frequency of 30,000,000 cycles per second.

Mme. Mustache Famous

Character of Deadwood

One of the famous and mysterious characters who thronged the streets of Deadwood, in the Black Hills, in the latter seventies was a fine-looking young, little French woman of about thirty, called Mme. Mustache from a dainty little mustache adorning her upper lip.

For 15 years she had followed the railway and mining camp, conducting gambling houses for her own, dealing her own game, handling the two boys like a veteran and maintaining "order" in it was known in every establishment she owned.

Nothing was known of her antecedents, except that she was of a degree of culture superior to her environment and was a good sport and a square dealer.—Detroit News.

The woman who has a good figure is always willing to admit it.

Wheeler Digging Up Lots of Stuff Against Daugherty—Oil and 1920 Campaign.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SO comprehensive, discursive and "far flung" are the various investigations in Washington that only the Congressional Record could do them justice in the matter of space. In the Daugherty Inquiry Senator Wheeler is having the time of his life and the witnesses, willing and reluctant, are numerous. Of these witnesses perhaps the most interesting of the week was W. A. Orr, one-time secretary of Attorney General Daugherty. From him was drawn a story of conspiracy to withdraw liquor from bond in which Howard Mannington, a close associate of Daugherty, played the part of "fixer" and Orr that of "collector." He also admitted that he had a share in the Denney-Carpenter matter and was supposed to have helped arrange things so that it could be exhibited free from prosecution. Orr, acknowledged that he had used his influence to induce the attorney general to appoint Col. William Hayward as United States district attorney in New York, but modestly disclaimed credit for having "put over" Hayward's appointment.

Further evidence concerning the "fixer" deal was given by G. O. Holdridge, former Department of Justice detective, involving Daugherty, Orr, Alfred R. Upton, Jap Muma, New York representative of E. B. McLaughlin, publications, Fred Quimby and others. Senator Wheeler declared the evidence was conclusive of the existence of a conspiracy. William J. Byrnes denies the implications drawn from Holdridge's story so far as they affect the honesty of the Department of Justice.

THE Tenet-Done committee heard a sensational story linking Harry Sinclair with the financing of the last Republican presidential campaign and related to the reports that oil financiers were simply trying to ensure General Wood's nomination at the nomination of Harding. According to the information received by the committee, Sinclair turned over to Will Hays and Hays' daughter 75,000 shares of stock in his oil companies, which was to be sold and the proceeds employed in financing of the million-dollar deficit incurred by the Republican national committee under the chairman ship of Mr. Hays in the 1920 election. A subpoena was issued for Mr. Hays, Philip Hines of Ohio, related a lot of hearsay about the futile attempt to deal with Wood and Carmel Thompson was called to tell what he knew about it.

From brokers' books the oil committee learned that these men traded in various oil stocks between Dec. 1, 1921, and Dec. 31, 1922. Attorney General Daugherty, C. Busconi, Slump, secretary to the President; Senators Curtis of Kansas and Ekins of West Virginia; Representatives R. R. House of Kentucky, and former Representatives (Goodykoontz of West Virginia, T. J. Ryan of New York and J. H. Hines of Ohio.

BIBERY charges against two members of the lower house having been laid before a grand jury in Washington, the special house committee appointed to investigate them, is holding its sessions in secret in order not to include or of the possible defendants. Among the witnesses heard have been the cashiers of four banks in the home town of Congressman Zihman of Maryland.

YET another committee of the senate, is investigating allegations of inefficiency and irregularities in the bureau of internal revenue. Assistant Commissioner C. R. Nash told it that in the last three years 790 revenue agents, inspectors and deputy collectors had been discharged because of dishonesty and graft. Commissioner Blair denied that appointment of principal employees in the bureau has been controlled by political considerations and told of his difficulties in that line with former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Elmer Dyer.

BY an overwhelming majority the house passed the new soldiers' bonus bill, and sent it on to the senate. That body will almost certainly pass either the house bill or an amended measure. What President Coolidge will do about it is not surely known. The vote in the house—855 to 54—insures the passage of the bill over a veto. It is not so certain that the necessary two-thirds vote can be obtained in the senate. Advocates of the measure are urging the senate finance committee to give the bill precedence over the tax bill now under consideration.

REGARDLESS of the merits or demerits of the bonus bill, there is ground for criticism of the way in which it was jammed through the house. The rules were suspended so that no amendments were voted on. The representatives who voted for the bill undoubtedly have thus provided themselves with a strong argument for their re-election, whatever may be the final fate of the measure.

THE senate went on record in favor of another amendment to the constitution by adopting the joint resolution to have presidents inaugurated on the third Monday in January and the new congress to take office on the third Monday in January after election. Only seven votes were cast against the resolution. It was introduced by Senator Norris, who thus explained its purpose: "First—The congress elected in November will go into office on the first Monday in January following, and a session will then begin. This means that the new congress won't have to wait thirteen months before its members are actually sworn into office. This means the abolishment of the so-called 'lame duck congress.' The old congress will have no session after the election.

Second—It abolishes the existing short session. Under present constitution provisions a congress assembles in December after election and runs until the fourth of March, when it expires by limitation. It is in this so-called 'short session' of congress that all kinds of jokers creep into the laws.

Third—Under the present constitution, if the people fail to elect a President, and the election is thrown into the house, it is the old-republican congress that elects the President, and not the new. This amendment will reverse conditions.

INCOMPLETE returns from the North Dakota primary show that Mr. Coolidge was the winner of the Republican endorsement, with Senators Johnson and La Follette running neck and neck for second place. North Carolina's delegation to the Cleveland convention was instructed for Coolidge. McAdoo won a big victory over Senator Underwood in Georgia, the result making it certain that he will have the states 28 votes in the New York convention.

To his close friends in Washington Senator La Follette is said to have admitted that he desires to run for president this year on a third ticket. He wants to be nominated, not by a brand new third party, but by a convention of independent Republicans to be held after the convention in Cleveland has nominated Coolidge and to which members of all parties will be admitted. It is asserted that he has no hope of being elected next November but believes his plan would smash the regular Republican party, result in a Democratic victory and open the way for a third party that would be the leading party of the nation four years hence. Of course all this may be mere political gossip.

OF MORE than local interest is the sale of the New York Herald by Frank Munsey to the New York Tribune, for a price said to be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. The Herald has gone out of existence after a life of eighty-nine years. The combined papers are now called the New York Herald-Tribune. Mr. Munsey sold because he could not buy the Tribune. He says the amalgamation was inevitable for economic reasons.

SIR ESMIE HOWARD, the new British ambassador, made his first public address at a dinner of the Pilgrim society in New York. The most important of his utterances was this: "An attitude of complete aloofness and lack of interest in the affairs of the other white continent cannot be maintained. The British government will unquestionably feel the impulse to work in her own way and in her own time for permanent peace in Europe, on which to put it on no higher ground, so much of her own prosperity depends. We in England have long ago realized that a policy of splendid isolation was but an idle dream and a vain imagining."

AN important statement dealing primarily with the definite abandonment of the Singapore naval base project, Prime Minister MacDonald told parliament that the British government would do nothing to encourage the new race for armaments. He pointed out that the government stands for a policy of international co-operation through a strengthened and enlarged League of Nations, settlement of disputes by conciliation and judicial arbitration, and the creation of conditions which will make a comprehensive agreement on the limitation of armaments possible.

GENERAL DAVES' commission of experts, it is now said, will not report until April 3. The German elections are set for May 4 and those of France for May 11, and presumably there will be no decision as to acceptance of the report until the results of those elections are known.

BEARS in the franc market, especially banks in Zurich, Amsterdam and Vienna, are in difficulties because they were caught short in the great squeeze resulting from the support that Morgan and Lazard of London gave the Bank of France. The latter institution bought all the francs offered and refused to settle, demanding actual delivery.

THE Chinese government has refused to ratify an agreement with Russia which was signed by its representative and had signed the soviet envoy to leave Russia because he wrote insulting notes to the foreign office. Moscow, therefore, has broken off the negotiations for a peace treaty. The situation is considered dangerous and commentators say civil war in China is likely to break out again. The Chinese also are having disputes with Japan concerning the Shantung railway and two Japanese naval squadrons are in Chinese waters.

DOWN in Honduras, where a revolutionary movement has been going on for some time, the rebels have won a series of battles with the forces of General Armas and Busso, who assumed dictatorial powers after the death of President Gutierrez and have occupied Tegucigalpa, the capital, and all the ports. There was wild disorder in the capital and the American minister asked for protection, so a landing force from the cruiser Milwaukee was rushed to the city from Annapolis.

Wa-p Was the First to Make Paper From Pulp
The principle of paper making from wood pulp has been in use by the humble wasp for several thousands of years.
The ordinary wasp's nest is constructed of paper mache. In its construction the queen of the swarrior utilizes the "modern" method of converting woody tissue into thin sheets. She constructs a cluster of five or six cells from the frayed fiber from weather-beaten boards or dead trees, or even bits of man-made paper. This cluster she provides with a waterproof paper umbrella.
Then she lays her first batch of eggs and proceeds to build another tier of cells to the bottom of the suspended pyramid, doubling the number of cells in the second tier, and adds correspondingly to the outside protective wall which is made up of alternate layers of paper and dead air, like the thermos bottle.—Detroit News.

Birds Played Big Part in Discovery of America

The cackling of the sacred geese of Juno's temple in time to awaken the sleeping guards and thus save Rome from the attack of the barbarians, the timely arrival of great flocks of migratory quail, saving the wanderers from starvation, in their wanderings in Arabia, and the part that birds played in "Columbus' discovery" of America are all matters of history. To most people the penguin is a most laughable species—a sort of waddling bird which does nothing but flop cumbersome-looking shoulders and turn a peculiarly foolish looking head from side to side. Many hardy navigators, however, owe their lives to this bird.

Pigeons in the Desert

An interesting application of carrier pigeons to useful peace-time work is soon to be tried by the national park service in the opening up of the large region east of the Grand Canyon National park. New roads have been opened through this section, uninhabited except for wandering bands of Navajo Indians. Touring cars will take passengers across the desert to points of interest. To guard against delays from breakdowns, and to keep park headquarters informed of them, carrier pigeons will be carried in these cars and released in case of difficulty. This service may be increased to include private messages from passengers.

A Tale of the Flatwoods

"How picturesquely that cabin nestles there in the pocket of the hills!" "A man named Belden, and his sister, lives there," the girl said, following the direction of his upraised arm. "They're Kentucky mountain folks that just moved in—they say the sister's quite pretty."

The preacher seemed to be studying the place, with its wild wealth of nature about it, his eyes straying at length from the cabin to its tumbled setting of cliffs and down along the opposite bluffs, mantled with half-sprung leaves, abloom with haw and dogwood and wild apple, until, as he twisted around in the saddle, the whole beautiful panorama of the narrow valley had passed in review before him back to the winding road by which they had entered.

As the girl followed his roving eyes, a black dead limb at the top of Eagle Oak, towering high above the quickening foliage, came into view. She raised her arm and pointed up and away to the lofty landmark.

"That's where the big gray eagle's been comin' every summer—since white men first came to the Flatwoods, I guess. Look—just over the top of that scrub poplar, stickin' up against that white cloud."

"I see it!" the man of books exclaimed, the simple gesture of pointing out to the distant landmark revealing the native grace that might still have been his but for the stooped and stunted air that life had imposed upon him. "It stands out against the fluffy whiteness plain as a flagstaff."

"Nobody in the Flatwoods would think of barnum!"

She stopped, with a low exclamation, for the woodsman had suddenly straightened in his saddle and had jerked his hand toward the cabin squatting against the bluffs up the hollow. The others followed the motion of his hand and sat staring.

Loose Belden's sister had appeared from behind the cabin and was turning toward them. She had nearly reached the bushes that fringed what might be called the front of the cabin when Belden appeared in the open door. He threw up his hand and called out a word or two, which did not quite carry to the three riders.

The mountain girl stopped and hesitated, her eyes cast nervously back. Belden stood aside, she entered the door; Belden closed it.

"Jack was watching the preacher. He saw his quick grip on the bridle rein; saw him stiffen in the saddle and glance uneasily about."

"Astounding! Quite extraordinary!" escaped him as the tense brief drama closed.

"Mercy!" Texie exclaimed, "I never knew you was crazy."

"She ain't," the woodsman muttered. The preacher glanced around at him, threw up his hand and exploded his blare laugh. It was a queer moment for a laugh, not a queer laugh for the moment.

"Not bad philosophy," he said. "People are not always as crazy as they act."

That the preacher was acting, the woodsman fully believed, but the circumstance was just a shade overdone—a circumstance that could hardly escape such a man as Jack Warhope, particularly after the chance clues that had first set his suspicions going. Why he was acting and what part the woodsman was not missing any chances to find out.

The three riders sat for some time looking toward the cabin in the pocket, Texie and the preacher discussing the astonishing drama that had flared up for its tense moment in the elbow of the hills.

But the drama evidently had but one act, and that act was closed. It seemed to the woodsman, as he covertly watched the preacher, frowning with overdone awkwardness in his saddle, that he showed just a shade of relief that it was closed.

The sun, a red warrior on the home-ward trail, had journeyed far down the pale fustiness of the sky; had ducked behind a huge cloud bank piled like a breastwork across the west. Presently, finding a loop-hole in the tormented cumuli, he glared back at the pursuing shadows; launched a shaft that fell spent and quivering upon Eagle run and shivered into glittering splinters upon the riffs.

Glau at the missed shaft, the red warrior took his eye from the loop-hole; drew farther back behind the massed fortifications; unstrung his bow. The pursuing shadows stole down the bluffs; dulled the water; dimmed the woods; walked the breeze and shook the wild apple twigs till the white blossoms snowed the grass—symbol of the hopes of men, that bloom, promise fruit, die.

The girl noticed the shadows. Her eyes left the cabin; glanced up and down the opposite bluff, where, under the brow of the wooded escarpment, objects were already beginning to dim.

The girl's roving glance stopped at a black walnut tree ten or fifteen yards away, where some frost-blasted walnuts of the season before still clung to a blighted limb. She swept a finger toward them, dropped her hand to the revolver at her belt and looked around at the woodsman. He caught the challenge in her eye, grinned and nodded.

With a quickness and skill that showed her mastery of the weapon, she plucked the revolver from its holster, raised it and fired. The first bullet cut a twig close to a walnut, the second brought one down.

such a firm saddle under him, the preacher flinched so at the first shot that he almost lost his balance. The second brought an effusive exclamation from him.

The slow eyes of the woodsman lived.

"Good!" he cried. "They ain't no other girl in the Flatwoods can do that!"

With a little wisp of a smile in her eyes she glanced around at him, and turned to the preacher.

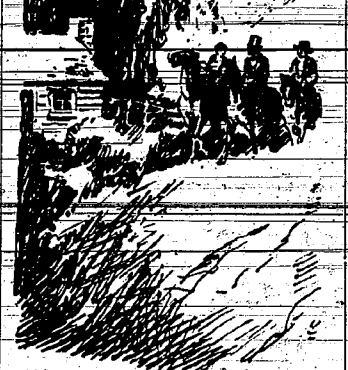

"Now, Mr. Hopkins, you can try 'yer new six-gun."

The preacher almost set up a breeze in the little valley with the gesticulations of his expressive hands; made a heavy draft on his ample stock of effusive exclamations, and finally flung the ivory-handled six-gun out of his holster.

He committed the blunder of cocking it with both thumbs—a bit of overacting that did not escape the man backing Graylock in apparent stiltedness.

After a deal of coaching from Texie, the preacher poked the revolver forward and pulled the trigger. There was nothing to indicate that the bullet even came near the target. He threw his head back and exploded his raucous laugh. Rex had stood firm under the shot; he smiled at the laugh.

The preacher brought the horse back alongside of Browne and fired again—the bullet shattered somewhere against the opposite bluff, but apparently did not even fan a walnut. He studied the revolver a moment, fixed his spectacles tighter on his nose, and settled seriously to the task; held the weapon in both hands, and aimed a long time, until the smoke

"It's the Cabin of Dead Henry Spencer," She Said.

Then the girl threw up her revolver and fired again. The bullet cut a stick in the rotted outer hull of a walnut, and she turned to the woodsman.

"Now, Jack, it's your turn."

"Aw, I couldn't hit one of 'em."

"Come on," she coaxed, "I ain't seen 'em shoot none since let's see—way before your plantin'."

"He looked at her curiously, and shifted in his saddle. The preacher had half turned and watched him narrowly.

Suddenly the revolver leaped from the woodsman's side and darted about over the blighted limb. Three shots rang out; three walnuts flew into fragments and crumbled down upon the leaves.

The preacher had straightened in the saddle and sat watching the wonderful marksmanship with an eye that suddenly kindled to flint and flame; but as the third walnut shattered to dust and crumbs, the stoop came back to his shoulders, the air of tired stolidity to his face.

The girl turned to the woodsman, her fine eyes alive.

"You could 'a' got three more!"

The light in the brown eyes kindled a response in the gray; a slow smile creased across his bold features.

"It's 'agin' the law o' woods," he said, with a seriousness that set her wondering, as he felt for the powder flask and bullets in his pouch.

In the dusk of the evening, as they rode back to the village, the girl stopped her horse in front of the old cabin, deserted and gloomy, that squatted against the side-hill a few yards back from the Eagle Hollow and the uncanny hotel; that the woodsman had gazed down upon from the top of the bluff that morning while watching the swallows dart in and out of its pined chimneys.

"That place is enough to give one the creeps," was the preacher's comment as he reined in Rex beside Browne.

"The girl turned in her saddle and sat for some time looking the place over—the gate now long unused, its hinges black with rust; the rank weeds and sprouts growing close up to the sagging door; the single small front window now yellow with clay that the rains had washed from between the logs; the rude clapboards of the roof warped, loosened, displaced—the crumbling remnants of what had once been a home, now desolate and forsaken under its somber canopy of trees.

"It's the cabin of dead Henry Spencer," she said, "where he murdered his wife and infant daughter with 's ax one bitter cold night when 'e was drunk, and then wandered out and froze to death in the snow."

"I've heard the story—from you, all—brother—and so this is the place?" "This is the place."

"But not all the story?"

He glanced around at her quizzically.

"No, not all," she spoke slowly; her words half a question. "They say he comes back."

The preacher's teeth gleamed white through his heavily bearded lips; his sarcastic exclamation point of a laugh jarred the silence of the placid valley.

"Why, Miss Texie, this is the Nineteenth century, not the Fourteenth."

"Yes," in a retentive emphasis, "but that's what they say."

He looked around at her again, with that same half-cynical expression that came so easily to his face, as he gathered up the reins.

With the mountain girl's hurried warning still fresh in his mind, the woodsman glanced covertly about him as they rode on, something he had been constantly doing since they entered the hollow. As he did so, the uncanny cabin happened an angle again under his eyes. A slight part of them that for the instant struck even his iron composure—a face at the window was peering at them through the clay-sunged pane.

The face ducked out of sight, and, without so much as a flick of the bridle rein—precisely as if he had seen nothing at all—the woodsman rode on. He glanced at the preacher, but apparently he had not seen the face. If he had he gave no sign.

CHAPTER XIV

The Scraps of a Match.

While grooming Graylock in his stall that evening Jack Warhope thought of the face that had appeared for its startling instant at the smudged window of Henry Spencer's unblown cabin. As a matter of fact, he had been thinking of it ever since riding out of the jaws of the hollow.

He hung up the curry comb and stepped to the barn door. The sun glared red through a slit in the cloud bank and still cleared the trees on the distant foothills by a path—enough for the purpose he contemplated.

A moment later he was climbing the rough path that led to the uplands. Pausing to search critically the woods in every direction, he then stole away toward the ill-reputed cabin of the dead woodchopper.

The sun just edged the tree-tops when he came opposite the place. Down in the bottom of the hollow, the shadows lay heavy, but the light still touched the uncanny hotel—squatted against the hillside.

Strutting through the bushes and brambles, he crept up to the place under cover of the fallen oak, with its festoons of wild cucumber vines. Near the corner most densely hidden by the vines a clink had dropped out from between the logs, leaving a narrow crevice. Shading his eyes, he peeped within. The cabin was empty.

Hugging the wall closely, he crept around to the sagging door; softly pushed it open. His eyes lifted at what he saw—an old box on end near which had once been the fireplace, an empty whisky bottle on the box, with a lamp standing beside it; ready to light; a blanket ready to hang over the smudged window.

The dusty floor was covered with tracks—man tracks—one man's. Stepping on as carefully to set his feet in the tracks, he entered the cabin and closed the door.

FIRST SUBWAY BUILT IN LONDON

Enormous Difficulties Experienced in Construction of Underground Railway Opened in 1863.

In October, 1860, London's first underground railway was approaching completion, but it was not until January 10, 1863, that the first passenger train ran. Enormous difficulties were experienced during construction.

The third-class passengers traveled in trucks, but the first-class carriages were lofty and comfortable. The carriages held ten persons, and were lighted by gas. They were high enough to allow a tall man to stand wearing his silk hat.

Sir William Hardman, in "A Mid-Victorian Peep" (Cecil Palmer), describes the first time he took his wife to visit "The Dredge," as the new Underground was called.

"It goes very smoothly and rapidly," he writes; "it feels very safe and quiet. I am spirited away to Baywater before I know we have started. The only difficulty is not to pass your station, for the stations are all precisely alike, without any distinctive features of surrounding streets or country to guide you, and if you are not carefully looking out you are carried farther than you intended to go."

Franklin's Thrift

We hear a great deal of Benjamin Franklin as the great exponent of thrift. Historians, recall, however, that the great scientist-statesman was not always thrifty enough. In his refusal to patent his famous stove, he was wasteful of his own and the public's profit. He wished his ideas to be given free to the world, and so did not protect his invention; an Englishman made some changes for the worse in the Franklin fireplace, secured a patent on it and reaped a fortune from the sales.

Experience as Nurse Causes Mrs. Fleming to Endorse Tanlac

Practical Nurse for 16 Years Tells of Recovery Thanks to Tanlac—Recommend It to Patients.

"I would never have believed any medicine on earth could help me like Tanlac did," is the precise statement of Mrs. Celia Fleming, 1915 Addison St., Berkeley, Calif., a practical nurse of sixteen years' experience.

"In 1904 a serious operation weakened my system so I never saw a real well day until I took Tanlac three years ago. I never seemed to be hurt any, my stomach was so disordered I could scarcely retain a thing—I ate, and I lost weight till I was almost a shadow. I was very anemic, and shattered nerves and sleepless nights contributed even more to my already miserable state."

"Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion wonderfully, and every single ailment went away. Then, with returning strength, came a 32-pound increase in weight, and from that day three years ago my health has been splendid. I recommend Tanlac to many of my patients, for it is indeed a remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitutes.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

County Agricultural Agent

LIVESTOCK LEGUMES LIMESTONE MEAN PROFITS IN FARMING

Money-Making Idea Number 18.

Better be looking up high-class seed oats, seed corn, and clover seed. The oats of the county do not average very heavy yields. The Wolverine oat, developed by our Agricultural College, has been found through Michigan to be the best yielder on our type of land.

The crop of Mammoth clover seed was only one-tenth normal amount last year. Red (June) clover is often found terribly adulterated with weed seed and Italian clover seed, that will not stand our climate.

County Agents have received special warning of scarcity of good seed corn throughout Michigan and Corn Belt states.

The Seed Department of Michigan State Farm Bureau laid in a stock of pure, dependable seeds of all kinds that you can order through your county agent who performs this service strictly without profit.

Persons who are late in ordering will find that the desirable seed is gone.

See your county agent this week about your farm seeds for 1924. Already farmers have ordered large amounts through him, put more should do so.

Get Something For Your Time.

The years hurry swiftly past. How it must make a man feel to realize that he is a year older, has put in a year's work, has used the investment in farm stock and tools, has paid taxes, and has secured only a half crop, a mere pittance!

This can largely be avoided by timely and thorough preparation of the soil, and the use of better grades of seed. Try it this one year.

Maple Forest to the Front Again.

We point with pride to the fact that Arthur Howse, of Maple Forest township, has purchased of Julius Nelson a splendid purebred Holstein bull calf.

The dam of this young aristocrat is Lady Pontiac-Moore—Perfection, Number 700375 in the Holstein-Friesian Herd Book.

The sire is one of the splendid animals so generously loaned to Crawford County by the New York Central Lines through the kindness of Mr. E. J. Leenhouts, Agricultural agent for those lines.

Mr. Howse is to be highly commended for his progressiveness and promptness in securing this desirable young animal.

We know that even among thoughtful towns people, and certainly among all farmers, the placing of choice foundation stock on a farm is an act whose value is appreciated.

A little toddling calf, that can be picked up in one's arms today, may seem trivial to some. Yet, Livingston County, Michigan, and Waukegan County, Wisconsin, started just that way, a few years ago, and now export hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of such stock each year.

55,000 Last Year.

From just such small beginnings Wisconsin was able to ship out fifty-five thousand head of dairy stock in 1923.

I predict that, in five years, Mr. Howse's herd will be the talk of the county, and will be worth driving miles to see.

Sodotol—Cheap War Explosive.

Time for putting in your order for Sodotol ends March 29. Better get some.

100 pounds Sodotol costs $8. 100 pounds dynamite costs $28. This is the last of the war salvage explosive. I am doing my best to let everyone in the county know about it.

Saved $600.

The 3000 pounds already ordered through the county agent saved just $600, just what the county pays a year on my salary.

Wouldn't Go Bad Here.

I am informed, this morning, that the Cooperative Creamery at Remus paid out almost four hundred thousand ($400,000) last year.

Yum! Yum! Wouldn't that go good here, spread around among our farmers!

Listen! Listen very hard! It is just as possible at Frederic or Grayling as at the little village of Remus. It just needs farmers to bring the cream in.

O, You $25 a Week!

Remember that the new idea here is $25 a week for each and every farmer in Crawford County, from cream or butter, and the eggs, veal calves, and pigs raised on the skin milk that win, of course, be produced from such a dairy business.

Skim Milk for Hens.

Skim Milk (always soured or thickened) is great stuff for hens. Every farm here should be feeding it to 150 well-culled-out, well housed hens. It's strange why farmers don't keep more and take better care of them, for they bring in such a lot of money all winter, if managed right.

Have to Get Ready Now.

To be able to turn out 50 or 60 pounds of butter a week (or its equivalent in cream) and to keep this large, paying flock of hens, wide awake farmers will, right now, be figuring on just what seed of all kinds they need; will be looking up seed catalogues; placing liberal orders for seeds to grow barn full of feed.

Bigger Corn Fields.

With but few exceptions all of our farmers ought to grow bigger fields of corn. You can always use it. More tons of nutriment can be grown on an acre of corn than on an acre of anything else we will ever grow. Cornstalks should not be fed to cows or horses without anything else; but, planted close, to make stalks grow small, corn fodder could be used as about half the roughage for idle horses all winter, saving the purchase of lots of hay.

Keep 'em in Condition.

The bowels of cattle should be kept in condition through winter by use of "Milkmaid" as a grain.

The bowels of horses fed dry feed all winter should be kept in condition by use of a small handful a day of linseed meal. There isn't enough linseed meal used in the county. Any one can tell that by the harsh, dry coats of horses we see.

Three Acres Enough.

Every farm should have its acre of mangels; an acre of carrots; and an acre of ruta bagas. Think of the tons of rich, juicy feed thus produced! This, with lots of corn stalks, good legume hay (clover, alfalfa, sweet clover, soy beans, or vetch) and milk-maker's grain, with good cows, freshening in late fall, then "your loggin'."

"Just a Barin."

Farmers should be digging through the snow now, down to the parsnips and horseradish, and be selling them in town, while everybody is "just a barin" for green stuff.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated July 11th, 1922, executed by Enus Anderson of the Township of Beaver Creek, County of Crawford and State of Michigan, to Constance Johnson of the City of Omaha, State of Nebraska, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Crawford County, Michigan, in Liber H of Mortgages, on page 356, on July 11th A. D. 1922, and Whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is one hundred and eighty dollars and forty five cents of principal interest and attorney fee provided by law, which is the whole amount claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice on said mortgage, and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house in the Village of Grayling in said County of Crawford on Saturday June 14th, 1924 at 10 o'clock, A. M., which premises are described as follows: To wit: All the certain piece of parcel of land situated in the Township of Beaver Creek in the County of Crawford and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit: The East half of the South-west quarter of section two in township twenty five, North range four West.

Dated March 17th, 1924.

"Price Class"

the mysterious stranger in the motor industry

Does a difference in price indicate a difference in quality? Why is one car priced 25% to 50% higher than another of the same quality? The 4 questions that a buyer should ask when considering any car.

HERE are facts based on world's engineering authority. If you have any intention of buying an automobile, you are urged to read them.

No "Price Class"

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Price does not indicate intrinsic worth. But an individual maker's cost of production.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

The difference in price simply shows that it cost one maker more to make this car than the other. Judging value on price, this is folly. Price class is a myth.

Where the Difference Comes in Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

This is based on a total engineering cost of $500,000 a year, which is the least on which any manufacturer can maintain an efficient engineering department.

Such a car is the Studebaker Light Six Touring Car at $1045. A clear difference of between $155 to $355.

The average small manufacturer whose volume will enable him to build only 5,000 bodies from a set of dies in the same time in which Studebaker builds 50,000 has to charge each body $20 for die cost. The difference of $18 is in the price but not in the body. The customer pays it but he gets nothing tangible for it. It is one of the penalties of uneconomical manufacture.

Thus a car priced at $1,200 to $1,400 can be sold as low as $1045 when produced economically in quantity.

Why Studebaker excels the world in body building

For 72 years Studebaker has been a builder of quality vehicles.

This historical tradition has been inbred in generation after generation of coach-makers. And the Indiana city of South Bend is known as a world-Mecca of artisans of this craft.

In the modern $10,000,000 Studebaker body plants, there are sons and fathers and grandfathers working side by side. Their religion is fine coach building. And this is reflected in their work.

As fine body builders, Studebaker stands supreme. No other maker has the experience of Studebaker. No other the Studebaker traditions to inspire him.

ings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 hand and machine operations are performed in the manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is great opportunity for economy and savings. 15% premium is paid on many steels to insure Studebaker specifications instead of "commercial run" used in cars many times Studebaker price.

No finer car can be built than the Studebaker of today. Only famous foreign cars and the most costly of American cars, compare.

See a Studebaker—Then Decide

Buy no car until you've seen a Studebaker. Go over it, point for point. Consult any unbiased expert. Ask your banker. And you will own a Studebaker.

Get an Answer to These 4 Questions Before Buying Any Car

1—Is this an assembled car? Or "partly" assembled. Insist on this answer. Assembled cars pay a profit to from 75 to 100 parts makers alone.

2—What sort of bearings? Studebakers are Timken-equipped. Everlasting smoothness and quiet performance result.

3—How many cars a year does this maker produce? Small productions mean either a higher price or cheaper car.

4—What sort of upholstery? Studebaker closed models are done in Chase Mohair, the finest material for this purpose known. Open models are upholstered in genuine leather.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.
By Department of Conservation, Lansing, Ingham County.

Order revoking an order issued on the 28th day of March, 1922 by John Baird, Director of the above mentioned Department, to regulate the taking and possession of fish on the waters of the district comprising the counties of Wexford, Osceola, Missaukee, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Crawford, Otsego, Lake, Newago, Arenac, Alcona, Montmorency, Emmet, Cheboygan, Lake, Mason, Manistee, Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Benzie, Alpena, Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalamazoo, Isabella, Presque Isle and Roscommon, for a term of five years commencing on the first day of May, 1924.

An order was issued by John Baird, Director of Conservation on or about the 28th day of March, 1922, limiting the number of brook trout which might be taken by any individual in one day or be had in his possession at one time for a term of five years from and after the first day of May, 1922 and in the district above mentioned, to twenty brook trout in one day or to having in possession not to exceed twenty of such trout at any one time on any of the waters in said district or to take with him or have in his possession at any point away from said waters more than forty brook trout at any one time.

It now appears to the said Department after a thorough investigation made by the Department in the above mentioned district, of the conditions therein prevailing and also by reason of a change in the laws of this state limiting the number of brook trout that may be caught in any one day or had in possession at any one time to less than the number permissible at the time the said order was issued, that the protection afforded by said order is no longer needed. The said order is therefore hereby rescinded and set aside.

Dated, Lansing, Michigan, March 18th, 1924.
